

Jamaican national used Massachusetts banks to laundered $670,000 for Colombian cartels

"BOSTON – A Jamaican man was sentenced today for his role in the laundering of hundreds of thousands of dollars in drug trafficking proceeds from Colombian cartels through banking systems around the world.

Seivright Donald Afflick, 56, was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Richard G. Stearns to 37 months in prison. The defendant will be subject to deportation proceedings upon completion of the imposed sentence. In February 2024, Afflick pleaded guilty to money laundering conspiracy and conducting substantive money laundering transactions.

Beginning in 2016 and continuing until 2022, an investigation into a sophisticated money laundering organization based primarily in Barranquilla, Colombia was conducted. During an extensive five-year investigation, the organization allegedly laundered over $6 million in drug proceeds through intermediary banks in the United States, including banks in Massachusetts, as well as additional proceeds through banks in the Caribbean and Europe by use of the Colombian Black Market Peso Exchange (BMPE) – a common method of trade-based money laundering used to repatriate the proceeds of drug trafficking to Colombia. An undercover agent infiltrated the organization by portraying himself as an international money launderer able to pick up bulk cash throughout the world, launder the proceeds through his United States-based accounts and send the money to Colombia through the BMPE.

Throughout the course of the investigation, members of the money laundering organization would contact the undercover and arrange meetings for the undercover and the undercover's purported associates to collect bulk cash throughout the world. Individuals, such as Afflick, performed the role of money courier. Afflick delivered bulk cash on two occasions in Jamaica. That cash was then deposited into the undercover bank account in Massachusetts, and then subsequently wired to accounts and repatriated back to drug traffickers in Colombia. Over the course of the conspiracy, Afflick was responsible for the laundering of approximately $670,000 in drug proceeds.

Afflick was charged in a 50-count indictment along with 19 other individuals in March 2022. Afflick is the sixth defendant to be sentenced in the case. Three other defendants have pleaded guilty and are awaiting sentencing. The remaining defendants have pleaded not guilty and are awaiting trial.

Acting United States Attorney Joshua R. Levy and Stephen Belleau, Acting Agent in Charge of the Drug Enforcement Administration, New England Field Division made the announcement today. Assistant U.S. Attorneys Jared C. Dolan and Alatheia E. Porter prosecuted the case.

This effort is part of an Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Forces (OCDETF) operation. OCDETF identifies, disrupts, and dismantles the highest-level criminal organizations that threaten the United States using a prosecutor-led, intelligence-driven, multi-agency approach. Additional information about the OCDETF Program can be found at <https://www.justice.gov/OCDETF>.

The details contained in the charging document are allegations. The remaining defendants are presumed innocent unless and until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt in a court of law."-Massachusetts Department of Justice.

Bristol Community College Veterans Center to host FREE off-base transition training workshops “Bristol Community College’s Joseph A. Marshall Veterans Center has partnered with the Department of Labor’s Off-Base Transition Training (OBTT) program to host the upcoming workshops “Your Next Move” and “Marketing Yourself” to better assist veterans, National Guard members and military spouses with the transition to civilian careers.

New Bedford Fire Department announces arrival of E-One Typhoon Custom Top Mount Pumper

“The Nbfd is pleased to announce our new E-One Typhoon Custom Top Mount Pumper has arrived at Greenwood Fire Apparatus in North Attleboro.

This pumper replaces our 2008 Engine 8 located at Station 8 on Acushnet Avenue in Ward 2, the City’s near north end. Captain Peter Clark, FF John Souza, the members of Engine Company 8, and E-One sales representative Colin Boutin deserve credit for designing a pumper that focuses on functionality, maneuverability, and takes advantage of all the available storage space to carry the equipment needed to complete our mission.

The pumper is less than 32' in length but consists of a full size cab, top-mounted pump panel, and a low rise hose bed. The wheelbase was decreased by 15" by deploying the two crosslays from the rear of the pumper. A "motor vehicle fire line" tray will be added to the passenger side below the ground ladders.

The cab is also equipped with a UV light air purification system to neutralize airborne pollutants. It is estimated the new Engine 8 will be placed in service in a month after it is fully equipped and the four groups have completed their familiarization and training.

The Department thanks Mayor Jon Mitchell, our City Councilors, and the finance team for funding our new Engine 8."-New Bedford Fire Department.

Massachusetts alleged home invader, rapist known as the “Bad Breath Rapist” captured in Diablo, California

“On February 2, 2005, Tuen LEE broke into a co-worker’s house and raped her. Quincy Detectives investigated the Rape/Home Invasion, quickly identifying, and arresting LEE. He was ultimately identified by DNA and his horrible breath, which produced the nickname “The Bad Breath Rapist.” The case went to trial at Norfolk Superior and after two days of deliberation the jury came back with guilty on all charges, but LEE had already left the state.

For years, the Violent Fugitive Apprehension Section (VFAS) Metro Team and Quincy PD detectives put hundreds of hours into attempting to locate LEE. After multiple media campaigns, including several appearances on America's Most Wanted, investigators, in early 2024, caught the break he needed in a case that seemed to have gone cold.

New information broke the case wide open. An address was developed in Diablo, California. Further investigation showed that the multi-million dollar residence was owned by a female flower shop owner. Open-source intelligence provided investigators with images of an individual on social media that they believed was Lee.

On May 28, 2024, VFAS Metro, the United States Marshals Service Boston, and Quincy PD linked up with the Pacific Southwest Regional Fugitive Task Force of Northern California.

Surveillance officers observed a male and female leave the residence in Diablo and enter a vehicle. A motor vehicle stop was conducted by Danville Police. LEE initially provided a fake name but ultimately confessed when pressed about his true identity. Fingerprints confirmed his identity. His female companion, after 15 years of being together in California, never knew who he really was. He was transported to Danville PD for booking and will be held pending his rendition to Massachusetts.”-Massachusetts State Police.

Massachusetts traffic stop where marijuana wafts out of car leads to arrest, seizure of 6lbs of marijuana “Around 1:55AM on Saturday, May 25, 2024, Trooper William Rolls was on Route 95 in Canton travelling southbound. Trooper Rolls’ attention was drawn to a Chevrolet Spark hatchback. Trooper Rolls conducted an electronic RMV check of the Chevrolet and found it to have no inspection sticker on record.

Trooper Rolls conducted a traffic stop and approached the operator of the Chevrolet, ALEXANDRE MACKENS, 25, of Brockton and requested his license. A RMV check of MACKENS’ license discovered his license to be suspended. A strong odor of marijuana smoke was wafting from the vehicle. Trooper Rolls had MACKENS and his passenger step out of the vehicle.

Now backed up by Trooper Andrew Freitas, Trooper Rolls could see a tray with scissors and rolling paper on the passenger floorboard. Trooper Rolls turned to a search of the Chevrolet. Trooper Rolls discovered vape pens, THC oil canisters, loose cash, and over 6 pounds of packaged marijuana. Trooper Rolls placed MACKENS under arrest and advised him of his Miranda rights.

ALEXANDRE MACKENS was transported to the Foxborough barracks where he was booked, fingerprinted, and photographed. MACKENS was arraigned in Stoughton District Court on charges of:

1. Possession To Distribute A Class D Substance;
 2. Operation Of A Motor Vehicle With Suspended License; and
 3. No Inspection Sticker.”-Massachusetts State Police.

After complaints during March’s Presidential Primary, City of New Bedford upgrades voting procedures

New Safeguards, Training, Staffing, and Equipment Result From Comprehensive Review Following March Presidential Primary.

“NEW BEDFORD – The City is implementing a range of reforms following a review of voter complaints during the March 6 Presidential Primary.

Ryan A. Pavao, acting first assistant city solicitor, was tasked by Mayor Jon Mitchell to review complaints and make recommendations for improvement.

The review’s recommendations include:

- Changing the allocation of political party ballots at polling locations and establishing a protocol to inspect/re-count ballots before distribution to the precincts.
- Maintain at least three runners, or poll workers responsible for supply trips back and forth from City Hall, per election.
- Establish a procedure in which poll workers will automatically call for resupply of ballots when the number on hand reaches a certain level.
- Update training requirements to include custodial workers and police officers.
- Involve voting machines and other election equipment in pre-election training.
- Update poll worker training materials to incorporate updates and/or revisions in state and federal election law, and have state Elections Division review the materials prior to distribution.
- Promulgate educational information to voters, particularly regarding party enrollment, deadlines, and voter registration requirements.

“We are continually looking for ways to improve the services City government delivers,” Mayor Mitchell said. “These procedure and training improvements will make our elections run more smoothly.”

The City has already begun to implement the recommendations, with additional resources being deployed to the Elections Office. These include the purchase of new high-speed equipment for ballot counting and mailings, additional voting machines, and staffing, some of which are presently pending City Council approval. All together, these investments total $163,000.”- City of New Bedford.

Bristol Community College names new Dean of New Bedford Campus

“Vidyanidhi “Vinnie” Rege, Ph.D., of Barrington, R.I. has been named the Dean of the Bristol Community College New Bedford Campus. Dr. Rege joined Bristol in 2020 as the Dean of Business and Experiential Education and will continue to serve as the college’s Dean of Business in addition to his new role.

As Dean of the New Bedford Campus, he will utilize his experience to foster a student-centered educational environment responsive to the needs of diverse students, as well as the recruitment and retention of a diverse workforce that reflects the greater New Bedford region. He will also continue to advance relationships with area institutions, community organizations and leaders to develop linkages and collaborations. Dr. Rege began his new role on May 13, 2024.

Dr. Rege earned his Bachelor of Science in Hotel, Restaurant & Catering Management at the Baltimore International College; his Master of Science in Service Management from the Rochester Institute of Technology and his Doctor of Philosophy in Hospitality Management from Iowa State University.

While serving at the college, Dr. Rege has launched successful initiatives resulting in increased student engagement and experiential learning opportunities. He has cultivated strong partnerships with local businesses and non-profit organizations, as evidenced by his existing collaborations with advisory board members and relationships among key community stakeholders.”

W.H.A.L.E. launches innovative online mapping tool for New Bedford

Places that Matter: New Bedford helps prioritize places for preservation, conservation, recreation and affordable housing.

“New Bedford, MA: The Waterfront Historic Area League, Inc. (WHALE) and Trust for Public Land (TPL) are excited to publicly debut a collaborative new project entitled Places that Matter: New Bedford. The project has two years in the making, when the 1772 Foundation and the Island Foundation chose New Bedford for the opportunity to partner with TPL on creating a “greenprint” for the city. A greenprint is a map of places that matter to a community. Creating one starts with community input and leads to state-of-the-art computer models and maps developed using Geographic Information System (GIS) software.

The map-based decision support tool and StoryMap can aid New Bedford community leaders, advocacy groups, and residents in making informed decisions about how to grow while preserving the character, environment, and quality of life in the city. WHALE and TPL surveyed New Bedford residents in English, Spanish, and Portuguese, hosting community outreach and conversations to identify the places that matter to the community. This effort yielded over 200 nominations to Places that Matter, and those sites are included in the final map.

Based on the observations, recollections and local knowledge of the city's residents, the interactive map identifies:

- Historical and cultural assets
- Opportunities for expanded affordable housing
- Opportunities for open space, parks and public art
- Areas at risk from sea level rise and rising temperatures

The goal of Places That Matter: New Bedford is to better understand how the community values places in New Bedford, and ultimately to help WHALE and others identify sites for future historic preservation and affordable housing efforts. These tools will aid in strategic planning efforts when working to improve the community and meet residents' needs.

Places that Matter: New Bedford publicly debuted on May 9 as part of the AHA! Night: Preservation Celebration. This tool is free and available for anyone to utilize for their own interest, education, or community advocacy efforts.

The online resources can be accessed through WHALE's website or directly through TPL at the following links:

Places that Matter

'Places that Matter' New Bedford Cultural Conservation Landing Page

Virtual trainings will be held throughout the summer and WHALE will be leading efforts to present the project to interested community groups and organizations. The trainings are free to attend, and are scheduled for June 5 at 12PM and July 10th at 2PM. Please register to attend through WHALE's website: <https://waterfrontleague.org/events/>

Places that Matter: New Bedford was funded by The 1772 Foundation, whose mission is to ensure the safe passage of our historic assets to future generations and The Island

Foundation, who funds groups that have community-wide recognition and support and demonstrate a positive vision for the present and future of New Bedford.”
