

Massachusetts shelter updates status of skunk kit fighting to live after being poisoned

This is an update of a previous article.

“UPDATE: Our skunk appears to be feeling good this morning. His respiratory rate still isn’t normal, but we are hopeful. We will be treating for rat poison for at least 6 weeks or until his blood clots normally.

We could REALLY use your help with covering the costs of treating our local wildlife. Baby season has started and we will soon be filled with orphans that need us.

We appreciate any support you can give. ?♥️ Thank you.

If you want to help give this skunk kit a fighting chance, you can visit the shelter’s PayPal here.”-Newhouse Wildlife Rescue.