

Mirasol's Cafe releases photos for soon-to-be open Fairhaven location

Fairhaven and Mattapoisett Chippi lover's have been waiting almost 2 years for Mirasol's Fairhaven location to open. That location hit some speed bumps which delayed the opening which was originally planned for last year.

If you've driven down Huttleston Avenue recently you've notice that a lot of construction work has been done recently, perhaps due to the construction of the Starbucks Cafe just a quarter mile away. It seems the two cafes are in a race to see who can open first!

Which, of course, is great news if you are a Mirasol's die-hard. Especially since this location, unlike the flagship in Dartmouth, will be a stand-alone cafe.

Artist renditions of the site shows it is a larger building than the New Bedford location and more along the size of the Dartmouth location. That means a return to the "old" Dartmouth version which had plenty of rooms for tables inside and on the patio.

Wednesday morning the Mirasol's Cafe page released photos with the caption "Big things are happening here in Fairhaven ☕ 👁️"
