

Rev. Russ Chamberlain let go from Mercy Meals

Rev. Russ Chamberlain has been let go from Mercy Meals and More, the organization that provides breakfast and a temporary cold weather shelter for the homeless in New Bedford during the freezing winter days. Here is a press release sent out from the board at Mercy Meals and More:

As Mercy Meals & More continues to grow and move forward, the leadership, which is the Board of Directors, has decided to separate from the current Program Director. We would like to reassure the public, our faithful contributors and especially the homeless and less fortunate, that this program will continue, as we always have, to serve and benefit this community. The Board would also like to thank the Program Director for all of his years of service and we wish him success in his future endeavors.
