

Vintage Easter Bunny Photos That Will Haunt Your Dreams

Every year I'll see friends post adorable Easter Bunny photos from their mall photo session, but what I enjoy is finding gems like this that come across my Facebook feed. We've all seen plenty of ones with sad and crying kids, but that happens even with the best bunny costumes. You really need to get in the wayback machine and go back in time for those classic, vintage photos with awful, hilarious and terrifying costumes for the full effect! This year I've taken the time to collect them into a rogues gallery of sorts featuring our intrepid bunny. Sit back, scroll through and enjoy!

Lets kick things off with this classic; is he a dad trying to hard or the next John Wayne Gacy?

The little dude in this classic shot really doesn't know what to think!

Not gonna lie, this kid looks pretty happy:

The family seems pleased, but our bunny looks completely sloshed!

Another happy bunch of kids, but I'm pretty sure that's the abominable snowman and not a bunny costume:

Screaming child and the worst fake lashes I've ever seen:

To quote George Takei, OH MY.

Poor kid doesn't know what to think, except maybe use less lipstick next time!

Some interesting vibes with this one; could be robbing the place or, I personally think he's pointing at another bunny like the classic Spiderman pointing meme:

This one is pretty creepy / cool. I get a JAWS flashback because the egg looks a bit like sharks mouth.

A classic 1970's Furrie, before their time!

I am 100% positive that mask is a paper plate; nice job McGyver!

Excuse me sir, either your wearing that backwards or you're gonna have to put that back in your pants.

This creature is a refugee from Five Nights at Freddie's

The red demon eyes are a dead giveaway; OR the little girl has possessed the poor bunny.

100% convinced this is a mouse costume. Someone stole the outfit from Chuck E Cheese and is totally moonlighting on the side.

Sorry kid, there is no escape!

This was the day that Janine questioned her life choices...

And a few timeless classics to wrap things up... Hope you enjoyed the trip down memory lane! Happy Easter~

